ELGOOG NO PU WOHS website, such a "leak" might appear when you share a link to your unfinished website in Facebook, for example by sharing it with a group of friends. You'll be able to send a separate request for this purpose;When you want to see "correct" results. After Google has confirmed your removal request, the removed site or page ÄÄ appear in the search results for at least 90 days. Not surprisingly, several users often ask us the opposite question even Ä ÄÄ how can I remove my site or part of it from Google? But with a single false step, information about the existence of your half-baked website can easily leak to Google. Oops. You'll find it very easily ÄÄ just click on Google's unwanted search result.Then, go to your Google Search Console and choose "Go to the old version" and "Google Index"Ä > "Remove URL".Ä In the next view, choose "Temporarily hide"Ä and enter the exact address of the page you want to remove. There are many reasons why you might want to remove their content from Google: Some information has been leaked to the search engine too early ÄÄ e.g. details about a new service or product.The page itself is actually deleted, but the information from it is still available (e.g. information published incorrectly);The information has been updated on the website, but the search engine still shows the previous version (e.g. old contacts or information published incorrectly).What is it, how do you remove the information from Google?If you check the website that contains the information, make sure that you first delete the unwanted page and then access your Google Search Console account.Ä The process works just like adding your website to Google Search Console ÄÄÄ using Search Console, a website management tool It works like a charm with Voog pure.You can find more information about how to use it for your Voog site from our FAQ:Ä How to get my site to appear on search engines?Ä In all, there are two preconditions to remove any data from The page indexed by Google is deleted or its address (URL) ÄÄ changed, and the website on which ÄÄ was verified the problem page (era) located with Google Search Console.Removing Your new website from Google Building Content of a new website takes a considerable amount of time. For example, You only want to see results without "www" (mysite.com) and want to remove those with "www" (www.mysite.com). Based on information from Google, your page will be resurrected within 3-5 working days. In addition, such links may end up in Google when you share the link via email or SkypeÄÄÄ when it is recalibrated to a third person and published by him to any web-based channel that is monitored by Google.Even before you request the removal of the website from Google, ÄÄÄ you need to remove or rename the problematic site or page. However, once you have added only one link to the new section in an older, indexed part of your site, Google will ÄÄÄ indexing the new section prematurely also.Again, ÄÄÄ you need to make sure that the content is not publicly available. You can follow the status of your request from the same place. place.
